There has been extensive media coverage of the United Nations Climate Change Conference (COP26) in Glasgow nearing its end as I write. World leaders have assembled to address the important issues and commit to change the course of events. Our lives certainly have an impact on the world that belongs to God. The passion stirred up shows how we are concerned about the future, which affects how we are to live now. We want world leaders to step up and save the world! It's a tall order. Who can do so?

It may all seem like a far cry from a Christmas letter in this magazine. Yet, the very celebration of Christmas has at its heart something which determines our future forever. The idea of a new creation, unspoilt and eternal, contrasts sharply with what we see now. It is in desperate need of intervention.

The Bible speaks of how God has intervened through Jesus Christ. Jesus' first coming (his advent) meant that through his 'incarnation' God revealed himself in the man Jesus Christ: "the word became flesh and made his dwelling among us" (John 1v14a). This testifies to the great love of God for the world to have sent His only begotten Son. He is 'Immanuel' (God with us), yet humbly lived and died on the cross for our forgiveness. Jesus came to reconcile us to God and makes us into a new creation.

Jesus has a second coming (his parousia) in the future. He will return in glory and majesty to carry out judgment and take all who belong to him to enter the new creation. What will it look like? The last book of the Bible reveals all: 'Then I saw a new heaven and a new earth, for the first heaven and the first earth had passed away, and the sea was no more. And I saw the holy city, new Jerusalem, coming down out of heaven from God, prepared as a bride adorned for her husband.'

And I heard a loud voice from the throne saying, "Behold, the dwelling place of God is with man. He will dwell with them, and they will be his people, and God himself will be with them as their God. He will wipe away every tear from their eyes, and death shall be no more, neither shall there be mourning, nor crying, nor pain anymore, for the former things have passed away." And he who was seated on the throne said, "Behold, I am making all things new." Also, he said, "Write this down, for these words are trustworthy and true." (Revelation 21v1-5).

The first and second comings of Jesus Christ bring about restoration: the restoration of our spiritual life and that of the whole of creation. Isn't this the world we all want? It is secured through Jesus Christ. Join us this Christmas to celebrate Jesus who came to save the world. Paul Kingman

My recent visits to both County and Royal Stoke Hospitals have resulted in some new experiences.

At County some of my time has been spent promoting the new 'Home from Home Room' which I have written about in earlier Hospital Notes. Interest in this room is increasing and one week I was involved in collecting 2 patients for 'an outing within the hospital'. They both enjoyed their time in the room where they were able to engage in something different from their normal ward routine. After an hour or so they were returned to the ward in time for lunch.

At Royal Stoke I was asked, for the first time, to sit with a person who was dying as no-one else was available and there were no relatives. This was very different for me, the object not being to make conversation, but just to be there for someone as their life neared its end. I sat and prayed quietly and when my presence was sensed a hand stretched and took hold of mine. This was quite moving and when the time came for me to leave it was a difficult thing to do.

Another somewhat unreal experience was when arriving at a ward I was told that the patient that I had come to see had died earlier that day.

I am surprised that even with my very limited time involvement I am still gaining new insights; the breadth of what medical staff must encounter is quite hard to imagine.

Tearfund

On Harvest Sunday, the church supported Tearfund as usual. This year their Harvest Project was

"Share the Load"

£533 has been donated. This will be given to those suffering from the effects of the climate crisis on food supply in the developing world – either from flooding or drought.

In Burkino Faso (sub-Saharan Africa) the problem is drought. One local pastor (who works in a town) is helping his congregation to understand their part in looking after creation e.g. planting fruit trees. 'The Lord God took the man into the garden to work it and take care of it.' (Gen2v14). He is also identifying those most at risk in his community. The farmers will receive training in new farming techniques to increase their harvest. Tearfund partner CREDO is supporting both projects.

Barnabas Fund

From 19th September -17th October we took part in their new project "food.gives" . We were asked to collect specific dried goods: chick peas, lentils, rice, salt, soap, wheat flour. Our goods were collected on 29th October by Paul Mulholland, one of our area reps. for Barnabas Fund. The goods will be distributed to hungry & persecuted Christians across the globe by Barnabas' church partners. The 1st consignment of goods from the project has been shipped to Zimbabwe.

Thank you everybody for giving generously to our Harvest Projects this year.

A warm welcome to all...

To this, our 12th year of the Christ Church, Stone, Community Advent Calendar. We are excited and ready to see all the wonderful Advent Window displays this year and look forward to meeting everyone who is able to join in with this year's event.

This year the displays will be up for the whole of December for you to enjoy around the town. Do follow the map and see if you can find all the windows!

We will, as in previous years, be 'opening' a window each day just like a traditional Advent Calendar, reading a section of our Christmas story and singing a Christmas carol. This will take place at 11.00am each morning and the locations for each day can be found on the next page. In addition, we will 'virtually' open a window each day on our Christ Church Face Book page, so you can still join in even if you cannot attend.

Do also join us on Christmas Eve – December 24th - from 9.30am when we will 'sing our way up the High Street' and revisit all the wonderful displays and sing as many Christmas carols as we can! We will start from Stone Pharmacy at 9.30am and finish at Christ Church at 11.00am for our final opening.

We would like to thank all the businesses who are allowing us to use their window space and all the schools, nurseries and organisations creating the artwork.

Our theme this year is 'Seeking Jesus' as we join the wise men on their journey to find the Christ Child – the promise of hope for all.

Helen

Small changes, massive effects

Last month hundreds of people flocked to Glasgow to take part in COP26, and we were inundated with news of protests by various action groups as well as more positive actions such as The Earthshot Prize. For the past two years the world has been preoccupied with the COVID-19 pandemic, while 'climate change' has continued on its destructive path, threatening life on earth as we know it.

COP (Conference of the Parties) comprises 197 signatories to a United Nations' Climate Change treaty, first agreed in 1994. Negotiations between governments are lengthy and complex, involving hundreds of ministerial and professional officials, as well as representatives of the general public.

Most of us would agree that urgent action is needed, but aside from recycling our waste responsibly, avoiding use of plastics, and reducing carbon emissions, what else can we do? As members of Christ's church, we can continue to support our mission partners who are helping vulnerable people to adapt and survive in countries already affected badly by climate change.

In Botswana, Jonathan and Robinah, have established Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) based on UN and COP protocols. Their aim is to improve agricultural production, processing and marketing to the point where communities not only become self-sufficient, but also benefit from marketing their produce and living in a cleaner environment. Jonathan's first successful crop has been Safflower (Carthamus Tinctorius) which is used to treat various medical disorders, as well as providing cooking oil for families.

In NW Romania, Pastor Mircea Pestean works with a team of church leaders, reaching out to impoverished gypsy communities. Recently, Mircea invested in some polytunnels to supplement his greenhouse, so that he can grow seedlings to give away as part of his project teaching better farming techniques that will increase crop production, protect the environment, and allow impoverished families to provide food for themselves, and benefit from selling any excess produce.

Other organisations that we support as a church include TearFund, CMS, and Barnabas Fund workers who are also striving to educate people struggling to cope in areas already devastated and under further threat from climate changes.

Small changes can have a massive effect if we all play our part. Please continue to pray for God's guidance and wisdom for leaders of nations and industries, policy makers and the people working at 'ground level', striving to make God's world a cleaner and more productive place.

Perseverance rewarded

'... we boast in the hope of the glory of God. Not only so, but we also glory in our sufferings, because we know that suffering produces perseverance; perseverance, character; and character, hope.' [Romans 5:2b-4]

For several years, prayers have been said for Jonathan and Robinah (our Mission Partners in Botswana) for the return of their plot of land in Uganda, which was stolen from them in their absence. In his latest update, Jonathan praises God for answered prayers, not only for the return of their building plot, but also for the arrival, at last, of someone Jonathan feels will be capable of undertaking and developing the outreach work of the Bows & Arrows initiative, started by Jonathan and Robinah more than 20 years ago.

Jonathan writes: 'The plot [of land] in Kampala stolen from us for the last ten years, delaying our retirement, had a court case hearing on the 6th October. We had been assigned to preach on perseverance 26th September and 3rd October and wanted to know what the Lord wanted to teach us on perseverance... Our Kampala plot is now ours, waiting for [the] start of development before another grabber gets in...'

Jonathan and Robinah also 'thank God who has brought us a son and daughter to the team. Rev. Dr Frank and Stella Kainerugaba may soon be heading this department. He is a gifted young man who in spite of his great learning with many degrees, two of them at PhD level, chose to serve God in this way.

He and his wife are blessed with two children and expecting. He will also work as Africa Region Training Coordinator. His wife is a Makerere University graduate and equally gifted and will be instrumental in bringing order in FCBA (Federal Communications Bar Association) and ADEA (Association for the Development of Education in Africa). Our God is a wonderful organizer and provider. Pray for permits and financial support. We are homesick already and would love to see this work out.'

Jonathan's latest newsletter can be found on the Mission Matters noticeboard in the Church Centre

A Fresh Start with U.C.C.F.

During Freshers' Week, at each of the 3 Staffordshire university campuses a variety of events were organised by the Christian Unions. Our Mission Partner, Matthew Leung gave a talk entitled "What is a Christian?", looking at the core fundamentals of Christianity and showing that it's a faith that is for everyone.

One of the first events UCCF Keele ran, was an International Night where they welcomed 20 students from around the world, including a student ["Krish"] from a Muslim country, who came along, not knowing anything about the event. He had recently renounced his Islamic faith and was seeking the 'truth'. He had a great conversation with a CU student and the main speaker and seemed happy with the answers to his questions. He took an Uncover Mark to read with the CU student and regularly attends CU meetings.

Another student, "Isaac", with a similar background to "Krish" came along to Keele CU's lunch bar event where Matthew was responding to the question "Isn't Christianity Irrelevant?". Afterwards "Isaac" asked many questions and is now meeting with Matthew on a regular basis.

Please pray for "Krish", "Isaac", and other students to understand the grace, the love and forgiveness found only in Christ and to accept Him as their Saviour. (These notes are based on Matthew's latest newsletter, which can be found in the file under the Mission Matters noticeboard in the Church Centre.)

Use your imagination

We tend to be a little suspicious of our imaginations!

However imagination is God's gift to us and is as much part of us as our natural appetite. Just like our desire and need for food we can misuse our imaginations or use them to foster proper growth. Jesus encouraged his listeners to use their imaginations when he used parables. They make us digest in our minds the great truths hidden in them.

There are many ways in which we can use God's gift of imagination to foster our spiritual growth. Here are just a few of them.

You are sitting quietly in a time of prayer. Then you imagine there's a knock on the door and on opening it to find Jesus standing there. "Here I am! I stand at the door and knock. If anyone hears my voice and opens the door, I will come in and eat with that person, and they with me". (Rev 3:20). So what happens next?

In the Bible when God wants to speak to people, He often calls their name twice. (I Samuel 3:10 and Acts 9:4 are good examples). So why not, from time to time, try starting your prayer time using your own name twice and then in your imagination see how the conversation develops.

A profound prayerful stillness can often result when we imagine Jesus just sitting quietly beside us. Sensing his presence in this way can sometimes help us know His love and forgiveness. Some people even hold their own hand and imagine Jesus is holding it...and why not? After all many of us were taught to put our "hands together" before praying!

Most of us will have wondered what it was like actually to be present with Jesus. For example, as we are reading Mark 2 we suddenly wonder what the paralytic man felt as his mates lowered him down. It all feels very unsafe...they might drop him. . You look up and wonder who will pay to repair the roof. Then suddenly, the jagged hole is hidden by the loving face of Jesus, close to you and looking right at you. He speaks "Your sins are forgiven you" and then later "Get up, take up your mat and go home". How are those words relevant to your situation at this moment? (continued)

Use your imagination

You may well ask is this sort of experience “real”? Of course Jesus is not physically knocking on the door of your room. But he will be seeking entry into your heart and life, and if your experience results in a deepening of your relationship with him then that surely is reality at a different level. The process is creative. In the same way you are thankful that you are not a paralytic but seeing the face of Jesus and mulling over his words you may find yourself moving on in your own life with a newfound confidence.

Now let’s face it.... Most of the time we will soon forget these imaginative moments, but then we can’t possibly remember every meal that has fed us. Yet without regular food we would soon get hungry, and at worst starve. On the other hand there will be some meals, maybe like a family Christmas dinner, which we treasure and never forget. In much the same way we need to regularly feed spiritually and very occasionally there will be an experience which, as I often say, gets “tattooed on our souls” Use your imagination, which is God’s gift to you, but because it’s His precious gift try always to use it as He would wish.

Crocodile Islands

Thanks to Mission Aviation Fellowship, Aboriginal communities can now take part in a census. Arnhem Land’s indigenous Yolŋu people live in Australia’s remote Northern Territory. The roads are generally unusable and the internet connection poor, which means completing the census forms by post or online simply isn’t possible. Last month, the Australian Bureau of Statistics carried out its 18th census and MAF was asked to help. First, MAF flew staff from the Australian Bureau of Statistics over the different areas, to see which communities lived there. Following this, MAF pilots Phil Techand and Anton Zhang delivered boxes of census forms to destinations such as Howard Island in east Arnhem Land — home to the Langarra community — and Milingimbi Island, one of the Crocodile Islands off Arnhem Land’s coast. Once the forms had been completed, MAF flew them back to its base.
